“Peace the World Together with Children’s Books”

The 9th IBBY Regional Conference provides a unique opportunity for teachers, librarians, and other readers to experience the world of international children’s and young adult literature. The 2011 conference theme fittingly reflects the thinking of Jella Lepman, founder of IBBY. She believed that people and nations could coexist peacefully by understanding the similarities and differences found in reading children’s literature from many countries. Like a quilt pieced together from many bits of fabric, international children’s literature brings together many different cultures and traditions to create a unified image of humanity. This conference celebrates the IBBY vision of working with children toward a more just and peaceful world.
